YWCA Building Committee Named

Appointments to the YWCA Construction and Finance Committee were announced this week by Mrs. Lee A. McCoy, chairman of the Building Committee, following a recent meeting of the latter group at the Torrance Library.

Named to the committee were: Sam Levy, general chairman of the committee; Mrs. E. E. Clayton, treasurer; Mrs. Julius Stamps, YWCA committee representative and assistant treasurer; Dean L. Sears, special gifts chairman; Fay Parks, John Steinbaugh, John Patrick, W. E. Bowen, Charles V. Jones, W. T. Tillotson, and C. B. Bagnall.

ARCHITECT NAMED
Roscoe Wood, AIA, has been retained by the committee to design the building and work with the contractor during the construction of the proposed recreation center. He has donated his professional services for the project, Mrs. McCoy said.

General contractor for the job is C. B. Bagnall, local contractor, who likewise has donated his services for the project.

STEEL DONATED
The Pittsburgh Paint and Plate Glass Company has promised the organization steel girders, originally intended for use by the paint manufacturing company in the construction of their new factory on Crenshaw boulevard, but which were found to be too short for their original use and were given to the YWCA by the management of the company.

BRICKS FURNISHED
Bert M. Lynn of the Lynn Brick Company, has promised approximately 3000 bricks for the entrance of the structure.

Still needed by the building committee are siding, roofing, stucco, glass, flooring, doors, windows, and other materials. Present plans for the 11,500 square foot building include a 30 by 60 foot main meeting room which can be divided into three sections for meetings of three groups at a time.

PATIO PROVIDED
Included also is a 2400-square foot patio with barbecue facilities. Equipment for feeding 200 persons will be provided. Leading off the main dining area will be storage areas for use by groups who will eventually meet at the YWCA.

The building is to be set to face Carson street. The Girl Scout building now located on the property will not be disturbed.

Chief Benner Attends Fire Chiefs' Meeting

Returning this week from the 77th International Fire Chiefs' Conference, Fire Chief and Mrs. J. J. Benner had nothing but kind things to say about the reception granted "visiting firemen" in the northern city.

A total of 1862 Fire Chiefs registered for the five-day conference, Benner said. Firemen from all over the United States and from Hawaii, Japan, and Germany were in San Francisco during the past week.

Under discussion at the conference were fire fighting techniques, civilian defense, equipment—everything connected with a fire department, according to the Torrance chief.

Mayor Elmer E. Robinson of San Francisco and Gov. Earl Warren addressed meetings of the convention.

Chief Benner had high words of praise for Chief Edward Walsh of the hosting San Francisco department. He said the convention was extremely well planned, and that the general attitude of all the visiting firemen was that of serious consideration of the problems confronting them.

No official word from the government has been received on the course of the nation's fire departments in the event of an attack on this country, the Chief said. A program had been expected prior to the convention.

Jews Mark Start of Year 5711 With Observance of Yom Kippur

With the start of the Jewish New Year yesterday afternoon, the Torrance Herald presents the following information concerning the holiday as a matter of public service. Joseph Piatt, the author, is a former writer for the Chicago Tribune, New York Journal of Commerce, and a correspondent for the Central Press Syndicate. He is currently associated with the Universal Furniture Company. The management and staff of the Herald wish to take this opportunity to wish the Jewish members of the community a Happy New Year. — Ed.

By JOSEPH PIATT
"May you be inscribed and sealed for a good year."
This greeting rang throughout the synagogues of the world on the eve of Rosh Hashana, or the Jewish New Year, on Monday night, September 11, the start of the Jewish holidays. The Jewish year, 5711, was ushered in that evening.

Rosh Hashana (literally, head of the year) is observed in the beginning of the seventh month (Tishri) as the Jewish New Year. The first of Tishri marks the traditional anniversary of the creation of the world, which occurred, according to ancient beliefs, five thousand, seven hundred and ten years ago. Therefore Jewish chronology begins with this day.

NEW YEAR CELEBRATED
The New Year holiday is one of the most important in the whole Jewish calendar and is observed alike in reformed and conservative temples, and in Orthodox synagogues. Like all other Jewish holidays and for that matter all calendar days, the festivities begin at sunset on the eve of New Year's day, Monday evening synagogues and temples adorned in white will be filled with worshippers welcoming the new year's approach.

It begins the Ten Days of Penitence, which will culminate in Yom Kippur, or the Day of Atonement. The high holidays, which are comparable to the Christian Lent or Holy Week, will continue a full day for the liberal congregations and two for the Orthodox.

CREATIONS SUMMONED
Symbolic of the Jewish New Year is the blowing of the Ram's horn, or shofar. The horn is blown in token of the summons of all created things to appear in the presence of the creator for judgment. It serves to intensify the spirit of reverence and contributes toward the creation of an atmosphere of solemnity. Sixty to one hundred distinct sounds, arranged in various combinations, are blown, the exact number varying with the different congregations.

The person who blows the horn is known as the baal Tokeah. He is dressed usually in a white shroud. Also dressed in white is the prompter, or person who calls out the names of the sounds. The two are generally distinguished members of the group. The shofar, according to hoary tradition, is supposed to be made of the horn of a ram, or other some other clean animal, except a cow or ox. It is boiled in water, flattened, and provided with a mouthpiece.

BUSINESS HOUSES
Temples were filled and many Jewish business places were closed during the observance. All Jewish homes ceremoniously observed the traditional rituals.

Interesting are the customs in the home. In addition to the recital of the Kiddush (sanctification prayer) and the kindling of the festive light, a piece of sweet apple is dipped in honey on the eve of the Rosh Hashana, the person performing this symbolic act, saying, "May it be God's will to grant us a good and sweet year." The bread, too, is dipped in honey symbolizing the hope that, as the bread is sweet, so may the experiences during the approaching year be sweet.

FRUIT TASTED
On the second night members of the family taste some kind of fruit, which has not yet been eaten during the year, and an appropriate benediction is recited.

Aside from its religious aspect, Rosh Hashana is the traditional day for the exchange of greeting and for the pardoning of grievances among individuals. So the observance was joyful as well as solemn.

In the earliest times the Hebrew new year began in autumn with the opening of the agricultural year in Palestine, a system adopted by all Semitic people. Modern Jewry regards this day as one for self-examination, a day on which the individual should strike a balance between probity and misdeed, and make a sincere resolution to turn from wrong and sinfulness in the year ensuing. From this belief comes the common New Year's eve resolution making.

imposing, but the modern observance is devoted to prayer and meditation.

From Biblical times up to the present, Yom Kippur and the entire ten days of penitence has carried an irresistible appeal to the Jew. The coming of the Day of Atonement arouses a sense of awe and stirs within him earnest consideration of his obligations as a man and his responsibilities as a Jew. The beautiful prayers and meditations of the ritual fill him with a spirit of repentance.
